ENVIRONMENT POLICY

All economic activity and societal development depends on the availability of natural resources and the health of the ecosystems in which we live. Therefore, all businesses have a responsibility to manage the environmental impacts arising from their direct operations and to work with partners to reduce impacts across the value chain.

The DCC Group operates in diverse industries and locations worldwide. As a devolved organisation, individual business units are responsible for the implementation of appropriate policies and procedures to identify, assess, control and monitor the environmental impacts that are material to their activities.

As noted in the DCC Code of Conduct, at a minimum, all DCC businesses must comply with applicable environmental legislation, regulations, permits and licences.

At a local level, all business units seek to optimise their use of natural resources - including energy, water and raw materials - and minimise the amount of non-hazardous and hazardous waste streams, water effluents, air emissions and releases to soil and groundwater where these are material aspects of their operations.

With respect to our suppliers, the DCC Supply Chain Integrity Policy sets out the processes by which reasonable assurance is provided on material risks presented by our suppliers - potentially including failure to comply with local environmental laws.

Climate change risks, both physical and transitional, are assessed as part of internal risk management processes to identify and manage both threats and opportunities over the medium to long term. Energy use within our operations is monitored and reduced through energy efficiency measures. Group carbon emissions are publicly reported.

Protecting our environment is good business. We are committed to continually improving our environmental performance through careful management of our operations.
